

out of business during the holiday season.

Normally, these 2,000 workers from Almacs would be eligible for emergency assistance from the Labor Department. But, with the shutdown, there is no one to process the State's application for assistance, and as a result, there will be no help for the families of Almacs workers during the holidays. And that, Mr. Speaker, is a shame.

The Speaker could have prevented the shutdown and responded to last year's call for an end to gridlock. Because right now gridlock is back.

The Republicans have a 7-year budget plan that is just too extreme, and they know it.

I am glad the President did the right thing to protect the education, health care, and the environment.

Mr. Speaker, I urge you to end the politics and start serious negotiations.

MEDICARE PLAN NOT GOING TO KILL MEDICARE

(Mr. GANSKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GANSKE. Mr. Speaker, I was in my office a few minutes ago when I heard a statement made on the floor that I felt I had to respond to. I would be ashamed to stand on this floor and say that the balanced budget plan, the Medicare plan is going to kill Medicare. That is simply not the case.

I can speak with some credibility to this because I am a member of the Committee on Commerce, and in my opening statement on the markup I said that I thought a savings of $270 million would be tough and that it would be my preference to lower those. And the fact of the matter is that the current budget numbers are significantly lower in terms of the savings from Medicare. This is a message that I think we are obscuring.

Can these savings be done that would still give quality Medicare? As a physician, I think so. But I will tell my colleagues what will happen if we do not. If we do not reform Medicare, in 6 years there are, I understand, insufficient funds to pay the bills. Let us get past the demagoguery.

FURLOUGHED FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

(Ms. MCCARTHY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. MCCARTHY. Mr. Speaker, thousands of Federal employees in my district are once again furloughed and nine cabinet-level agencies plus EPA and NASA serving millions of Americans have shut their doors.

The Republican leadership for a second time has chosen to use American taxpayers as pawns in an effort to compromise the President's vow to protect Medicare, Medicaid, education, and the environment.

The Republican leadership has failed in its responsibility to the American people to enact a budget. This failure has wide-ranging effects.

It's not just the Federal employees who are prevented from working. Crucial services to the American public are not available: FHA mortgages are going unprocessed; small businesses are not receiving assistance; and veterans' benefits may be delayed.

As a former member of the Missouri State Legislature and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee—we balanced our budget while protecting vital services and passed our spending measure every single year. We do it at the State level as do county's and cities and business and homes and we should be able to do it at the Federal level.

It is time to work together to get the job done. It is time to pass necessary spending bills and to offer a budget resolution that protects the values of the American people. The American people want teamwork and this is what we as Democrats insist upon.

PRESIDENT SHOULD BE KEEP HIS COMMITMENT TO AMERICAN PEOPLE

(Mr. CANADY of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Mr. Speaker, just moments ago the President signed into law the Lobby Disclosure Act of 1995. I am very pleased that the President has taken this action, and I congratulate the President on his support for this important reform measure.

But today, as we are facing a Government shutdown, as we are facing the challenge of balancing the budget, I must remind the President of something he signed into law just a few days ago. The President signed this language into law: "The President and the Congress shall enact legislation in the first session of the 104th Congress to achieve a balanced budget not later than fiscal year 2002, as estimated by the Congressional Budget Office."

This is a solemn commitment that the President has made to the American people, and I believe that the President is obligated to come forward with a plan which will accomplish this goal. The President said he would do it, now is the time to do it.

The House, last night, voted resoundingly on a bipartisan basis to support the same goal. We can do it. The President needs to put his plan on the table.

NOT A SEASON OF JOY FOR FURLOUGHED WORKERS

(Mrs. CLAYTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, this is the Christmas season. This is the observation of Hanukkah. Both of those religious communities now celebrate what should be a joyful season. It is the season of Advent. It is the season where we have certain words that come to mind, like sharing of family values and those things that are essential. It is the season where we learn to give within our means. I hope it is the season that is instructive to us as we are debating the balanced budget.

It certainly is not a season for joy for those workers who have been furloughed. There does not seem to be a sense of fairness when the poor must suffer while the rich are given big tax breaks. It is certainly not the season for living within your means when indeed we find the deficit will go up at the end of 7 years rather than go down.

Yes, this is the season where we should be reasonable people. I would expect that reasonable people will learn how to compromise. Shame on us in this season of joy, this season of Advent, when we bring such discord, such dis-joy and such pain on the most vulnerable. We should be sharing our wealth not taking away health care for the vulnerable people of this country.

STOP WEAVING FABLES AND TELL THE TRUTH

(Mr. MICA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, how could the President of the United States gather little schoolchildren for a media event backdrop to veto a bill and not tell them and the American people the truth?

Mr. Speaker, our President should remember the story of Pinocchio when he weaves these fables. The President and the American people should know what is happening with their Federal Environmental Protection Agency and hazardous waste dollars. The truth is the General Accounting Office has said raw politics, not public health or safety, is the prime consideration for picking cleanup sites.

The truth is that 85 percent of Federal Superfund money goes for attorney fees and studies. The truth is that we have doubled the size of the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, with almost 9,000 bureaucrats in Environmental Protection Agency downtown just a few miles from here.

The truth is that even the courts say that cleaning up dirt to an edible standard is wasteful and ludicrous. We need to stop weaving these fables and tell the truth.

CONTINUING RESOLUTION FOR D.C. KEEPS CITY'S HEART BEATING, BUT BREAKS THE HEARTS OF CITY'S RESIDENTS
